About the North Carolina

Literary and Historical Association

On September 18, 1900, a group of men met in Raleigh to explore establishing an organization to encourage literary and historical activity in North Carolina. The Association was founded and among its stated purposes were "to stimulate the production of literature in our state" and "to collect and preserve historical material." It was the Literary and Historical Association that proposed the founding of the agency that would become the Office of Archives and History. Many illustrious North Carolinians have led the organization through the years, including Justice Walter Clark; R. D. W. Connor, first archivist of the United States; and authors Paul Green and Inglis Fletcher. Today members of the association may receive the North Carolina Historical Review, the North Carolina Literary Review, and Carolina Comments. They are also notified of important meetings and conferences sponsored by the association.

About the Federation of

North Carolina Historical Societies

The Federation was formed in 1975 to assist historical organizations in promoting and preserving local history. Any group dedicated to pursuing historical activities is encouraged to join. Federation members receive a quarterly Federation Bulletin containing information of interest to historical organizations. They also are notified about workshops that can assist them in their work. The Federation operates a no-interest loan program to assist in publishing historical materials or conducting special events.

Registration and Parking

The registration for this year's meeting, which includes Saturday workshop, dinner, and social hour, is $45.00. The fee for the workshop only is $10.00. For attendance at the afternoon program only, there is no charge.
